TO BRIGHTEN THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving fare brings big smiles to three young patients of Penticton General Hospital, Tommy Carleton, 9, of Keremeos, Kathy Kerr, 4, of Penticton, and Colleen Detjen, 9, of Keremeos. The three seem fully to appreciate the flowers and good things to eat donated by grade one pupils of Carmi School. The gift is offered each year at Thanksgiving time by the Carmi-school children.

Civil Servants Charge Socred Gov't Not 'Fair'

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. civil servants said today Premier Bennett's statement that the Social Credit government has tried to be fair to its employees, "is hardly borne out by either the reception of association proposals, or the failure to implement promises made in the past year."

The charge came in a statement unanimously approved by 100 delegates to the 15th annual convention of the B.C. Government Employees Association. It was made in reply to a speech by Premier Bennett Friday in which he reviewed the government's actions to improve working conditions for its employees.

The association statement agreed that many improvements had been made since Social Credit came to power in 1952 "but they usually followed strongly documented association presentations."

It said that "in spite of these gains our comparable position is, if anything, less favorable. Wages have improved in recent years but too little and too late. Mr. Bennett gave certain glowing examples of dollar increases and translated them into striking percentages. The fact remains that these increases were inadequate."

"Government employees' wages were, even with the increases, behind in 1952, behind in 1953, and behind in every year in between."

Duplessis Appeals Judge's Decision

MONTREAL (CP)—Counsel for Premier Duplessis has decided to appeal a decision made by a superior court judge in preliminary hearings leading up to the hearing of the premier's libel suit against

The application for permission to appeal is to be heard by the appeal court in Quebec City Wednesday. Le Devoir was officially notified Friday of the appeal action.

The libel suit stems from articles in which the Montreal daily criticized sale of the Montreal household gas distribution facilities marked by a $20,000,000 takeover of Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

The newspaper said the sale was marked by a $20,000,000 stock market coup. It named seven cabinet ministers, the lieutenant-governor, five legislative councillors, Premier Duplessis' private secretary and some top-ranking civil servants as shareholders, or former shareholders of the corporation.

LAUNCH 16 SUITS

A total of 16 libel suits have been launched against the newspaper. In Mr. Duplessis' case, his counsel filed a statement of claim and Le Devoir followed with a statement of defence. Counsel for Mr. Duplessis then asked superior court Judge J. L. Marchand to order Le Devoir to provide additional information to one paragraph in its statement of defence. Counsel for Le Devoir said the newspaper had filed as exhibits copies of all editions dealing with the gas transaction and that they contained all the information available to it. Other information could only be obtained from the cabinet.

Judge Marchand ruled in favor of the defence and it is this decision that Mr. Duplessis' lawyer has decided to appeal.

Noted French Painter Dies

PARIS (Reuters)—French painter Maurice Vlaminck, 82, died today at his home at Rue-la-Gadellier near Paris.

Vlaminck, in poor health for about two years, was known as the "Father of the Fauve School." He first came into prominence in 1905, when he, Matisse, Derain and Marquet startled the art world with an exhibition of paintings at the Paris Autumn Salon. Critics dubbed Matisse the "Roi des Fauves"—King of the Wild Beasts—as a result of the paintings and the school took its name from that comment.

RCAF SEARCH LAUNCHED

PWA Plane Missing; Two Men Aboard

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Pacific Western Airlines Aeronca aircraft with two men aboard is missing between Prince Rupert, B.C., and Massett, in the Queen Charlotte Islands, the RCAF search and rescue centre here said today.

Another PWA plane was searching the general area but the RCAF was waiting for a check from surface vessels and RCMP before instituting an organized air search.

The plane has been missing since 5:05 p.m. Friday. The distance from Prince Rupert to Massett is 80 miles.

The RCAF said the weather was poor with rain, fog, low ceiling and winds up to 40 miles an hour at the time of the flight.

It was hoped the pilot may have landed the single-engine, float-equipped plane in some sheltered spot.

The pilot was accompanied by a passenger in the two-place aircraft.

Their names were not released. All surface vessels in the area were requested by radio to watch for the plane, and assistance also has been requested of the U.S. coast guard at Juneau, Alaska.

The missing plane had a cruising speed of about 85 miles an hour and should have taken about one hour for the trip. Massett is on Graham Island, Hecate Strait and from the Alaska northernmost of the Queen Charlotte group, and is separated from the B.C. mainland by Dixon Entrance.

MOON ROCKET SOARS THROUGH OUTER SPACE

Pioneer Climbs 52,000 Miles Up

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The defence department announced today that the pioneer satellite was about 52,000 statute miles above the earth at 1:45 p.m. EDT. At the same time the department said: "It appears that the Pioneer still is departing from its planned trajectory."

By VERN HAUGLAND

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—An American rocket aimed at the moon zoomed through space today but there were indications it might miss its lunar rendezvous.

The rocket was the first man-made object to go into free flight and reached the highest altitude ever attained by any man-made vehicle.

It roared off in a cascade of smoke and flame from a launching pad here today on a mission to probe the secrets of space—possibly even determine what may be found on the dark side of the moon.

The world's first lunar rocket took off slightly slower than had been planned.

But the slower speed apparently had little effect. The rocket and its 85-pound load of instruments moved as scheduled along its 221,000-mile path, to a rendezvous with the moon in about 2 1/2 days.

There's no expectation that the rocket will actually hit the moon but the scientists hope to come within 50,000 miles of it and possibly orbit around the moon.

The momentous moon launching came a little more than a year after the Russians startled the world by hurling the first earth satellite—the Sputnik—into orbit.

Four satellites since have been launched by the United States.

According to plan, the United States first tried to throw a moon rocket into space Aug. 17 but the rocket exploded 77 seconds after leaving the launching pad. Today's attempt was completed on schedule.

An hour after the flame of the 4:42 a.m. EDT launching had burned away a light ground fog, announcement was made that the lunar rocket had escaped the earth's heavy gravitational field.

Two hours later as the satellite sped on, men who directed the launching said data still was too limited to permit accurate estimates of altitude and speed. But they said the lunar rocket apparently was speeding through space at some 25,000 miles an hour.

In Washington, the defence department announced that if the lunar probe should attain a desired orbit around the moon—and it will not be known for some time whether this will be achieved—the satellite would stay within 40,000 miles of the moon for at least seven days.

COULD HIT MOON

The department also said that it is theoretically possible that the satellite might actually strike the surface of the moon or even pass beyond the influence of the moon's gravity and go out into outer space beyond the range of earth tracking stations.

It was disclosed for the first time that instruments carried by the satellite include one for measuring the intensity of radiation during flight from the earth to the moon.

Inclusion of these instruments was prompted partly by the recent discovery of a potentially dangerous band of radiation beginning about 600 miles above the earth and continuing on out to an as yet undetermined altitude.

At a press conference Dr. Louis Dunn, president of the Space Technology Laboratories, Los Angeles, which developed the lunar probe, said there were some indications that the launching speeds had been slightly lower than were scheduled.

Within the fibre-glass shell are 30 parts of instruments designed to:

1. Collect and relay information on the magnetic fields of the earth and the moon.
2. Record the number of micrometeorites it encounters.
3. Measure radiation intensity during flight from the earth to the moon.
4. Determine temperature inside the satellite during flight.
5. Obtain a crude electronic picture of the surface of the moon.

It carried too television scanning equipment to gather data on the hidden far side of the moon.

ELECTION OF NEW POPE SET

THE COLLEGE of cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church today called a conclave to begin Oct. 25 to elect a successor to the late Pope Pius XII. The new pope will be elected by a majority of one more than two-thirds of its members. Possible successor as Pope is Ernesto Cardinal Ruffini, 70, Archbishop of Palermo, Sicily, (left). He is noted as an able administrator and organizer. Beards Cardinal Tisserant, 74, dean of college of cardinals, (centre), may emerge as Pope. Election of Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian, 63, (right), would mean the first non-Italian in 400 years on Peter's throne. He is Russian-born.

Crew Flees Burning Boat

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three crewmen and their captain were forced to flee in a lifeboat after vainly battling a fire aboard the tugboat off Vancouver early today.

The $50,000 tug Clive R. Brewster, owned by Harbor Services Ltd., burned to the waterline. It was towing an empty oil barge from Nanaimo to Vancouver when the blaze broke out.

The men who escaped were Captain Chris Johansen, mate John Pauley, engineer Adolph Kolberg and cook Dick Roberts, all of the Vancouver area.

The crew fought the blaze with fire extinguishers. Unable to check it, they radioed for help. The tug D and B, also owned by Harbor Services, went to the rescue.

Steamships Adjust Freight Rates

VANCOUVER (CP)—Union Steamships has adjusted some of its freight rates "to bring them up to the level of our competitors," a spokesman for the company said today. Capt. J. A. Macdonell said the adjustments were made when the company recently changed the basis for its rates from weight to measurement.

Claims U.S. Balloons Over Russia

LONDON (Reuters)—The Soviet Union today accused the United States of sending balloons over Russia to carry out aerial reconnaissance "of targets for their ballistic missiles." The accusation was made by a Soviet spokesman at a Moscow press conference attended by Russian and foreign correspondents, the Soviet news agency Tass said.

German Civilians, U.S. Soldiers Fight

HELMSTEDT, Germany (Reuters)—About 100 German civilians were involved in a two-hour brawl with about 20 United States soldiers here today, Helmstedt police reported. The German police said an American soldier was slightly injured. Two German civilians were charged with breach of the peace.

Jury Probes Doctor's Disappearance

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Post says a federal grand jury has been secretly impelled here to investigate the strange disappearance of Dr. Jesus de Galindez in 1956. The newspaper says the investigation was launched on orders of U.S. Attorney General William P. Rogers. The U.S. attorney's office here declined comment. Dr. Galindez vanished on the night of March 12, 1956, after teaching a class at Columbia University, where he was an instructor.

Simple Two-Storey Design Economical Family Dwelling

Architect Michael Bach, of Toronto, has designed this two-storey house along simple lines for economy. However, all rooms are of ample dimensions and are arranged for convenient living. The open planning of the rooms on the ground floor adds an air of spaciousness. The large windows in the living room overlook the garden and provide good natural lighting. There are large storage cupboards in the upstairs hall and the architect has also provided room for storage in the basement as well as space for laundry and a playroom.

The total floor area is 1,144 square feet and the exterior dimensions are 22 feet by 26 feet. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 507, are available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

ASPHALT TILE

QUESTION: When we moved into our home, we painted our basement floor with a water-mixed cement base paint. Now we would like to tile the floor with asphalt tile. But being painted, I wonder if the tile would hold to the paint?

ANSWER: If the cement base paint adheres properly to the concrete, it probably will not be necessary to remove it. However, for safety's sake, most paint manufacturers recommend complete removal. Should the paint be removed, it could cause trouble by loosening the adhesive under the tile. It is advisable, however, to wire brush the surface to remove any loose powder so that the asphalt cement will adhere to a solid surface.

TILE INSTALLATION

QUESTION: Am planning to install ceramic tile in the bathroom. Where can I get information about this?

ANSWER: Your tile dealer should have this available. Or write to the Tile Council of America, 800 Second Avenue, New York City. I am sure they will be able to help you.

NOISY OIL BURNER

QUESTION: When our oil burner starts up (we have basement-less ranch house) the thumping noise it makes seems very loud; the burner is mounted on a raised concrete platform. Would it help to eliminate the noise by lining the utility room walls and ceiling with acoustical tile?

ANSWER: It certainly should help soften the noise, and the more area you cover with this type of tile, the more decibels you will cut down. However, before going to this trouble and expense, I'd suggest having the oil burner serviceman make an inspection. You may have just a simple mechanical difficulty which could be repaired to take care of most of the noise.

MOVING TILE HOLDERS

QUESTION: The bathroom in the home we purchased recently is of ceramic tile with ceramic soap dishes, towel holders, etc. The latter are in such inconvenient places we would like to move them. Is this possible without damaging the tile?

ANSWER: Moving your ceramic soap dishes, etc., is a very difficult "do-it-yourself" job, and it is easy to chip either the tile or the holders. It would be better to have a professional do the job. Consult the classified telephone directory under "tile dealers".

If you could add more ceramic holders, placed where you want them and leaving the ones now there "as is" it would be an easy job. There is a special "handy patch" preparation, now available at well-stocked hardware dealers, which will attach the holders firmly to the wall; it is specially-treated plastic patching material.

LAYING CERAMIC TILE

QUESTION: Please give me names of handbooks for laying ceramic tile on kitchen walls?

ANSWER: "Handyman's Home Manual, Vol. 224" contains a section on laying ceramic tile. Some tile dealers carry this book. Instructions for laying tile are usually available at your dealer's (Publisher of manual is Fawcett Books, 67 West 44th Street, New York City; price 75 cents.)

Conference Set On Penal Reform

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—A federal-provincial conference opening here Monday may prove the most important ever held on penal reform in Canada.

The two-day conference has been arranged to consider now to implement sweeping changes in handling criminals, as suggested in the 1956 report of a committee headed by Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Ontario Farmer Wins Canadian Plowing Match

CRYSLER, Ont. (CP)—A lanky Ontario cattle farmer is the new Canadian plowing champion and a Prince Edward Island agricultural student has earned the right to team with him in the 1959 world competition.

Charlie Bonney, 31, of Princeton, Ont., topped the seven-province, 13-man field by guiding his two-share plow to a total 147 points out of a possible 200.

Grant Wells, 29, of Stouffville, Ont., ran him down to the wire with 142.5 points. Third was red-headed Carl Willis, 20, of Cornwall, P.E.I., a senior student at MacDonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., who scored 140.3.

Under rules designed to spread some of the honors among the other provinces, student Willis gains the nod with Mr. Bonney for the world match next October at Coleraine, Northern Ireland. The two representatives must be from two provinces.

There is a possibility Albert Raymond of St. Benoit, Que., fourth, might wind up with the trip. Willis said he is scheduled to do a year's post-graduate study in the United States next year.

The also-rans, in order of finish, were Rene Renaud, St. Eustache, Que., Toby Trimble, Portage la Prairie, Man., Cyril Heynes, Emerson, Man., Raymond Brown, Athol, N.S., Glen Morrissey, Cherry Valley, P.E.I., Tom Hickman, Chilliwack, B.C., James Taylor, Midland, N.B., Hugh Templeton, Havelock, N.B., and Aubrey Smith, Athol, N.S.

Opera Group Marks 10th Anniversary

TORONTO (CP)—The Opera Festival Company of Toronto opens its 10th anniversary season with a two-week presentation of three operas here.

Canada's only professional opera group will perform Verdi's "A Masked Ball," Offenbach's "The Tales of Hoffman" and Puccini's "La Boheme".

The tales of Hoffman will be sung in English; the others in Italian.

Conductor Walter Susskind, who came from Australia to succeed Sir Ernest MacMillan as director of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra will open his North American operatic debut by conducting the lyrical La Boheme.

Two Winnipeg natives will take featured roles, Morley Meredith in the Tales of Hoffman and Norman Mittleman in La Boheme.

If the essential provincial agreement is forthcoming at the conference, the federal government is understood to be ready to start immediately an intensive program to implement the report's recommendations.

PRINCIPLE APPROVED

Justice Minister Fulton, who with Solicitor-General Balcer will head the federal delegation at the conference, has said the central government has accepted "in principle" virtually the whole report. Attorneys-general of all provinces are expected to attend.

In summarizing its findings, the Fauteux Committee listed 44 recommendations for changes aimed at improving Canada's penal system.

The 162-page committee report said in part: "Improvements in correctional facilities in Canada have lagged far behind those in the other social sciences."

"It appears to us that the factor chiefly responsible for this state of affairs has been a continuing lack of public interest in the subject which, at times since Confederation, has amounted almost to apathy."

A MAIN POINT

Mr. Fulton has said a main point in the report is its recommendation that a national system of parole should be established to include prisoners sentenced to less than two years.

Since only prisoners serving two years or more now go to federal institutions, it followed, therefore, that implementation of this recommendation would require bringing under federal jurisdiction all prisoners serving more than six months.

The report recommended that a five-man parole board replace the existing system of cabinet granting prisoners tickets of leave.

Legislation establishing a parole board was passed at the last session of parliament, but it has not yet been appointed, presumably through a wish to await the outcome of this conference first.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS

Other report recommendations include:

1. Legislation providing that no one under 16 be committed to penal institutions where adults are confined.

2. Special institutions giving specialized treatment and post-release care to alcoholics, drug addicts, sex offenders and psychopaths.

3. Reception centres to which prisoners could be committed for examination and classification pending commitment to institutions specially suited to their condition.

4. Parliamentary consideration of legislation to authorize the courts to order probation without conviction and to abolish restrictions on court powers to suspend sentences.

Democracy Means Toleration Of the Opposite Viewpoint

George Home, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor, had no easy task last Thursday evening when he addressed the Penticton Board of Trade at their monthly dinner meeting. He knew before he opened his address that he was facing a group of men entirely from the field of management. He gave a good address, presenting the thinking of the group he represented without fear or favor.

Bearing this in mind the board of trade executive is to be congratulated in inviting him to speak at the meeting.

Whatever our thoughts on Mr. Home's speech as reported in yesterday's Herald, one truth emerges: Mr. Home said labor was here, and here to stay, and that we might as well get used to living with it.

For the first time in our memory the board heard the very definite views of organized labor. The opinions presented were not necessarily agreed with, but the fact that they were heard and listened to with tolerance, speaks well for the democratic thinking of the board.

Far too often in the past we have tended to reject that which went against our own line of thinking. One of the chief problems of the entire American continent in the past has been the tendency to shut out entirely thoughts running contrary to those held by the majority.

Just a few years ago we had the witch-hunts in America of men and women who disagreed with the general thinking of the existing American government. At that time western democracy was taken to an all time low.

Fear of opposite opinions has led to more grief in this world of ours than anything else. We tend to go our own way, forgetting completely that other people, other fields in life, can oppose us and still live with us.

It is because of the elimination of this fear, the free invitation to Mr. Home to voice his opinions without restriction, that we congratulate the board of trade. The board did well. It did more than that. It demonstrated quite forcibly the difference between communism and democracy. The difference between listening with clear minds to the opposition — and refusing to listen. The difference between the desire to face a problem, and refusing to believe that a problem exists.

Red Shield Appeal to Open

There are folks, well-meaning people on the whole, who entertain—even in this day of social enlightenment—some queer views as to the nature of the work done by The Salvation Army, as well as its personnel. For example, one good lady who had never travelled far from the place in which she was born, thought that Army soldiers, both men and women, all lived together in places known as "barracks". A police constable, whose uniform is provided by the tax-payers, thought that the neat dark-blue clothing of the Salvation Army officers, caps and bonnets also, was supplied from Army funds. He was surprised to learn that although the Army has its own tailoring departments, Salvationists have to pay full price for their uniforms, which usually are of the best quality obtainable. Incidentally, their practical founder and first general, William Booth, insisted from the start that, poor though many of the early Salvationists were, they should wear the best kind of cloth, as it was lasting and economical in the long run.

Then some people hold to the notion that Army musicians are well paid for their efforts, perhaps being misled by the fact that musicians' unions insist on this for their own men. It may come as a surprise to many that more than a hundred thousand senior and junior bandmen around the world give their services voluntarily, as is also the case with as many singers and other workers. Only the officers, who spend their full time in the work, are paid a bare living salary, according to the standard of the country in which they live. These men and women as leaders, are obviously not interested in money, apart from the good it may do.

So when an Army representative calls at your door next week for a donation, remember it goes almost wholly to the work of the cause and not to the individual. Economically, this movement stands as one of the highest and most efficient in the world.

BRINKMANSHIP THE NEW AMERICAN GAME

Herald Correspondent Meets General Soustelle

FIRST of a series of exclusive articles from Paris, France, on reactions to the French referendum on a new constitution.

By M. MCINTYRE HOOD
Special London (England)
Correspondent for The Herald

PARIS, France — This evening I talked with General Soustelle, minister of information in the De Gaulle government, who narrowly escaped assassination some three weeks ago. I met him at a reception in the clubhouse of the Roland Garros Stadium, where the prizes were being presented by the stormy petrel of Algiers to the winners in the French Journalists Tennis Tournament. And as I talked with the general, who reminded me very much of Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec as he was 20 years ago, I marvelled at the reputation he had acquired as a hard-boiled political and military leader.

He was genial and charming as he gave me a warm welcome to Paris. Affability was pouring out of him. He expressed his admiration for Canada and Canadians. His last words in our interview, in the midst of a milling crowd of tennis enthusiasts, were:

"Tell the people of Canada that France is now looking forward to a strong and happy future. I believe the people of Canada want to see a strong France re-established as a world power, and we are very sure that we will have the moral support of Canada, at least, towards that end."

KNOWN IN CANADA

We had gone to the reception at the invitation of Jean Knecht, foreign editor of Le Monde, influential right-wing Paris newspaper, and Madame Knecht. It will be recalled that in 1955 Jean Knecht was guest speaker at the Canadian Managing Editors' Conference in Montreal, and was accompanied to Canada on that occasion by Madame Knecht. Both were prize-winners in the tennis tournament. Jean was runner-up in the consolation men's singles and Frances, with her partner, were doubles champions for the fourth year in succession.

General Soustelle made a happy little speech in presenting the prizes. He looked more like a successful business man than a fire-eating general.

SECURITY MEASURES

We were impressed by the security measures taken at the club to protect him. As he arrived, escorted by a party of the national guard, he, and all the rest of the party there, walked between two rows of guardsmen, each holding a sub-machine gun at the ready position, with fingers on the trigger. I felt a bit uncomfortable as I walked along in the party with all these lethal weapons, as it seemed pointing straight at me.

Once inside, the precautions seemed to disappear, although men in uniform circulated in the crowd in the club room.

IMMEDIATE INTEREST

It was after the prize presentation was over that I was presented to General Soustelle as a journalist representing a large and important group of Canadian newspapers. His interest was immediate. In his official post, he remarked, he was in constant touch with the French press, and had a very high regard for it. It had been very helpful, he indicated, in securing the overwhelmingly successful result of the recent referendum.

I spoke to him about the part he played, as minister of information, in the referendum campaign. He was diffident about it. He made these enigmatic remarks:

"As Marshal Joffre said after the Battle of the Marne in 1914, 'I do not know who deserves the credit for the victory, but if we had lost the battle, I know who would have been blamed.'"

"There were many things which entered into the result," said the general. "But most of all the people of France wanted their country to be strong again, to have stability. I think we have some assurance now that this will be achieved. There is still much to do, but we have taken the first steps, and the future looks very hopeful. That is all I can say at the moment."

Then, at my request, General Soustelle gave us the message to the people of Canada which is quoted above.

It was intriguing to meet this man, who I was told, keeps himself close guarded in his office, and never grants interviews to newspaper men. Perhaps he was caught off guard a bit at the reception, but he talked freely as we got off in a corner in the crowded room.

PLAYED IMPORTANT PART

Actually, he played a great part in the referendum victory, as he was in charge of all the propaganda which emanated from General De Gaulle's headquarters. I saw many of the posters still on the Paris boardings, and they were highly effective, with a punch behind them.

I was told that perhaps Soustelle exercised a measure of control over the radio and television stations, and to a lesser extent, over the press, during the campaign. If he did, it was because he felt that the urgency of the cause demanded unusual measures, and probably he now feels that the end justified the means.

OTHERS OF INTEREST

We met some other interesting people at the reception, including the President of the Council, or Lord Mayor, of Paris, Jean Louis Vigier; Raymond Rodet, director of information for the city of Paris, and Henri Cochet, one time world champion tennis player, who recalled some interesting incidents of the tour he made of Canada when at the peak of his career in tennis. He had arrived in Canada with two cases of champagne, he said, quite unaware of the strict liquor laws of that country, and he related with gusto his efforts to get his champagne through customs.

When he left, General Soustelle again passed through the rows of armed guardsmen, who saw him into his car and safely off the grounds before they laid aside their machine guns and marched away, their security job successfully completed.

All France Appears To Favor de Gaulle

By M. MCINTYRE HOOD
Special London (England)
Correspondent for The Herald

PARIS, France — I have now been in Paris for two days, and I have yet to meet a single person who voted "Non" in the referendum. Perhaps I have been moving in the wrong circles to find any opponents to the De Gaulle plans for France. Or perhaps those who voted in the negative, now that there has been an overwhelming victory for De Gaulle, are keeping quiet about it.

In spite of this, I have been given to understand very clearly that the winning of the referendum is only the first step towards a new deal for France. There are still hurdles to be crossed, obstacles to be met, a new French National Assembly, or parliament, takes over its duties with greatly restricted powers.

But the Fifth Republic is on its way, with a strong man at the helm, and the next steps will be the framing of a new election law and the holding of an election for the national assembly.

NEW ELECTION LAW

The framing of the new election law, I have been told by more than one political expert, will not be a very simple matter, if it is to satisfy all parties. In fact, it is taken for granted that the extreme left wing, including the Communists, will not be satisfied with it.

We asked some people close to the government just what they expected. The first answer was that the new election law is likely to result in a much smaller Communist bloc in the next assembly. Under the old election system of proportional and percentage representation, it was felt that the Communists received more seats than they would have in a straight vote. So it is anticipated that the new election system will be like that in effect in federal elections in Canada, with the candidates with the highest number of votes elected, without regard to whether they have a clear majority or not. There will be no transferable votes, and no use of percentages of votes to decide the representation of the electoral districts.

FEWER COMMUNISTS

One observer commented to me that this would probably reduce the number of Communists in the new assembly to around 75, less than half the number they had in the last assembly disbanded by De Gaulle.

Indeed, the number may be even smaller than that, if one is to judge from the drastic reduction in the Communist bloc vote in the referendum. It fell something like a million votes below the normal Communist vote in assembly elections.

One journalist with whom I had a long conversation, and one who is regarded as something of an authority on French political affairs, told me that one of the benefits likely to arise from the new regime would be the return home of a large part of the army of 500,000 men now stationed in Algeria. Algiers he said, had been a great drain on French resources and manpower. Most of the French army was now stationed there.

"It is the hope of the De Gaulle supporters," he said, "that it will be possible to put a complete end to the fighting in Algeria, to bring back to France the huge army that has been needed there to keep the rebels in check."

Whether this will be realized or not is really difficult to estimate. Today General De Gaulle is in Algiers, and it is noted in the French press that while he spoke at length on reforms for Algeria in the economic, social and educational fields, he had nothing to say about the political future of the country, and of its complete integration with France. Today's comment is to the effect that while the Algerians cheered his statements on reform measures, they were greatly disappointed that he had steered clear of political questions in what he said. But he did give assurance that two-thirds of the deputies from Algeria to be elected to the National Assembly would be native Algerians and one-third French Colonists. That seems like loading the dice in favor of the natives.

NO FEAR OF DICTATORSHIP

There is little fear in the minds of the French people, I have been told, that De Gaulle will become a dictator. Had he remained in power 12 years ago, he might have done so. A close observer of De Gaulle told me that the general has matured greatly in a political sense since then, that he deliberately called the referendum to let the people decide on the new constitution for the Fifth French Republic. While the new assembly will have somewhat restricted powers under the constitution, and the president will have much greater powers, there is nothing to suggest a dictatorship.

It is taken for granted that De Gaulle will be the first president under the new constitution. I have found no one as yet disagreeing with that prediction. But what is just as important is the question of who will be the first prime minister. That will depend very largely on the result of the election, but the favorite in the betting is Guy Mollet, one of De Gaulle's staunchest supporters in the referendum campaign.

General Soustelle would like to be prime minister. He is essentially ambitious. He has his eye on the top post. But all of those whom we asked about his chances answered in the same way: "Not yet, but perhaps some day."

As a general summation, I would say that the French people have high hopes for their new governmental system. They see an end to many of the splinter groups and small political parties which have bedeviled French political life. Several of these will disappear, it is believed, in the new alignment. And if the new regime accomplishes that, it will home of a large part of the army at least have achieved something in worth while, is the universal Algerians he said, had been

Canadian Aid to India Increased

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Canada will lend India a further $8,800,000 to buy Canadian wheat this year, Canadian Finance Minister Fleming announced Thursday.

Fleming, here to attend the World Bank and International Monetary Fund meetings, told a press conference this loan will bring Canadian aid to India to $167,000,000 since 1951.

Of this, $124,000,000 has been in outright grants toward such projects as hydro-electric and transport programs, metals development and an atomic reactor. The remaining $43,000,000 has been in loans for such things as purchase of wheat.

Asked Canada's attitude to any increase in the price of gold, Fleming said it would naturally be to Canada's advantage as a gold producer.

"But we recognize that this depends on the action taken by the United States as the principal purchaser of gold in the world."

APPROVES PROPOSAL

The World Bank unanimously approved an American proposal to increase its capital resources. The resolution was passed after the U.S. undersecretary of state for economic affairs, C. Douglas Dillon, had explained to the bank's board of governors President Eisenhower's idea of an international development association to help underdeveloped countries.

He said that in the past some projects had to be turned down by the bank because the repayment of the loan in hard currency such as dollars would have placed an undue strain on the borrowing country. If a new institution affiliated with the bank could make loans repayable partly in softer currencies such projects might become feasible.

Charge It? Recharge It!

Oil companies, hotels, the telephone company, the Diners' Club, and now the American Express Company have entered into what some call the "battle of the charge cards." Firms and organizations have issued credit cards numbering into hundreds of thousands.

Observing this trend, Editorial Research Reports adds, "And the end is by no means in sight." To which we are inclined to reply, "Yes, it is. We have seen it somewhere, but please don't ask us where."

What we saw was an account of a talk by one of the inventors of electronic computers and business machines. He forecast that in a few more decades people will stop carrying money around; instead, each one will carry an electrically coded card with which the grocer, barber, dress shop, and bank teller will enter debits or credits on an account in a central clearinghouse. Or perhaps, having said "Charge it!" once too often, the holder will go to the payroll window for a recharge.

Then, after centuries spent developing a medium of exchange, commercial civilization will have learned how to do without money — and so be right back where it started.

UNITED KINGDOM OPINION

Commonwealth Men Meeting in London

By M. MCINTYRE HOOD
Special London (England)
Correspondent for The Herald

LONDON — Quietly, and without ostentation and fuss, an important Commonwealth Conference is under way here in London. This is known as the Nigeria Constitutional Conference. Its goal is to make the way clear for the granting of complete independence to the whole of Nigeria. Attending it are delegations from all the states which make up that country.

These delegations agree on one thing only, so far. They are unanimous in their claim that Nigeria should achieve independence by April 2, 1960. Only the British government, represented by Colonial Secretary Mr. Lennox-Boyd, remain discreetly silent on this point.

So far, only the Eastern and Western Regions of Nigeria are self-governing, and have been so for the last year. The Northern, better for men serving in the Region and Southern Cameroons are pressing for self-government within the next year, so that they can enter into a Nigerian Federation in 1960. The present conference is aimed at ironing out the practical problems which remain to be solved, with the sympathetic and willing help of the British Government.

STAY IN COMMONWEALTH

One striking feature of the opening session of the conference was the declaration of the Premier of the Northern Region, "It is fitting to reiterate our solemn declaration that Nigeria will always stand part of the British Commonwealth."

Thrift has attracted a good deal of public attention, as one more instance of a colonial territory being given its independence, and deciding of its own volition to

NEW DEAL FOR TROOPS

Things are going to be much better for men serving in the armed forces of Britain. This is indicated in the report of the Defence Committee, on which the Defence Committee is expected to act. Life in the forces is going to be more free-and-easy, with many restrictions removed, more pay for some, more home leave and better living conditions. Aim of the committee was to provide for a scheme which would attract recruits to Britain's all regular army which is scheduled for 1962, when compulsory national service is to be abandoned. Officials describe the report as "the most down-to-earth plan for the welfare of the servicemen for many years."

Reading the report of the committee, of which Sir James Gigg, former War Minister, was chairman, one is amazed at the far-reaching nature of some of its proposals regarding new benefits to be conferred on members of the forces. They are such as outstanding addition to his rank,

Gall Bladder Removal Advised in Some Cases

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Mild attacks of gallstone colic generally can be treated by simple methods, while severe attacks require the aid of a doctor and special drugs.

Generally, a gall bladder that has caused several attacks of gallstone colic should be removed, since it is very likely to cause more in the future.

If further attacks do occur, infection is likely to result. This could mean a rupture of the gall bladder, and peritonitis is always a possibility in cases of rupture. FEVER AND NAUSEA

Acute gall bladder infection usually brings on fever, nausea and vomiting. The upper right part of the abdominal cavity will be painful and tender.

Doctors usually prohibit such patients from eating anything. Use of antibiotics sometimes will bring the infection under control. Sometimes the gall bladder is filled with pus. This means that to prevent a possible rupture, the gall bladder will have to be removed sooner or later. If the infection does not subside within three days an operation usually is imperative. Such an operation removes not only the gall bladder itself, but any offending stones as well.

Occasionally, however, a doctor will feel that an operation is not advisable at that particular time. This means that the patient will have to maintain a rubber diet. All spicy foods and fat and greasy foods are prohibited. So is alcohol.

Whether disease of the gall bladder is produced by infection or by gallstones, eating fat usually causes considerable pain. Small stones, incidentally, are apt to cause more pain than large ones. The smaller stones enter the ducts more easily and that's where the most trouble is caused. But any gall bladder which begins turning out stones generally will have to be removed.

QUESTION AND ANSWER:

Q: I have a yellow stain on my teeth. What can I do to remove it?

A: Stains may be caused by bacteria, mucus, calcium deposits, tobacco and various substances one eats. The removal of the stain depends on the cause; therefore, it is suggested that you consult your dentist.

RED CROSS VOLUNTEER workers Miss Ella Munn, Mrs. E. J. Smith, Mrs. W. S. Reeder, Mrs. T. E. Walker and Mrs. C. C. MacDonald are seen with one of the many sewing projects for distribution at Red Cross Headquarters in Vancouver. The women sew work patterns supplied by the Red Cross and work in the Pentiction Health Center every Friday afternoon.

"Don't Take Things For Granted," Said Red Cross Worker

"Some things we seem to take for granted without thinking of the work going on behind the scenes and the large amount of organizations necessary to make the wheels go around. We may be forgetful about the sons and daughters of Martha," said one woman who has done a great deal of Red Cross work for many years.

In Pentiction there are 50 Red Cross members convened by Mrs. Wilson Hunt who make dressings for the blood transfusion service. They go regularly and pile up a that needs to be done. Packing in the big cartons for headquarters in Vancouver is an art in itself and four women convened by Mrs. I. Betts handle this job.

Miss Elizabeth Bashford is convener of the three recorders who keep everything marked down in books for tallying up reports and generally keeping figures straight.

From January until the end of June this year, or until the time when the summer recess commenced Mrs. Reeder says that there were 695 workers in the workroom.

These women appreciate the 71 hostesses which include organizations and individuals who serve tea on Friday afternoons when operations cease for a refresher pause. This part of the local Red Cross network is arranged by Mrs. Jack Riley and Mrs. C. M. Fennis.

Through the summer, although the workroom was officially closed, special consignments were sent to the flooded parts of Poland, to Korea, Geneva, Lebanon, Judea, Vietnam and Ceylon.

The local branch is concentrating on children's clothes for infants up to the age of 14 and more and more quilts.

Every woman is welcome to participate and there is always work, either in the workroom or to take home, for everyone who comes.

SPORTS DIARY

THE 1958-59 OKANAGAN Senior Amateur Hockey League season will open in Penticton Monday night at 8 p.m. with Kelowna Packers, defending league champions, and Penticton V's, league door-mats during the last two seasons, meeting in the lid-lifter.

With the exception of these two clubs, the league is pretty much of unknown quantity.

What the Vernon Canadians and Kamloops Chiefs will come up with in the way of a team remains somewhat of a mystery and probably will until we see them in action.

We will see George Agar's Canadians next Friday. Bill Hryciuk's Chiefs won't be in town until the following Friday.

THIS MUCH WE DO know — or at least we have a pretty good idea. The Packers will again be good and the V's will be vastly improved.

Jack O'Reilly should have a powerhouse again this season. The Packers have been working hard to plug holes left by the loss of Pat Coburn, Ray Powell and Orv Lavell. The three will be hard to replace, but O'Reilly has some good new men in Ivan Tennant, Bobby Bergeron, Gerry Goyer and Russ Kowalchuk. The Packers will be tough.

In less than two months, this club will be on their way to Moscow. They will play a series of exhibition games behind the iron curtain. Before the club leaves, they will be appraised by Sid Smith, Whitby Dunlops coach last season. If they are not, in Smith's mind, strong enough to give the Russians a good battle, they will be strengthened.

The nucleus of the Kelowna club is made up of players who have been together for several years. In addition, the Packers are just completing a long string of exhibition games. This should give them an edge in conditioning over the other three clubs in the league.

PAT COBURN'S V'S won their first two exhibition games of the year. Both games were against Western Hockey League teams and both were convincing wins for the locals.

Therefore, it goes without saying that the V's should show a great deal more than they have done in the last two seasons. The team is almost entirely a new one. Very few of last season's players will be back.

Reno Zaniar will be one of the most noticeable of the new faces. Against WHL opposition, Reno looked like money in the bank.

Coburn and Yogi Kraiger, two of the best defensemen in amateur hockey, will anchor the blue line patrol.

Up front fellows like Buck Forslund, Ed Johnson, Wendy Keller, Dave Gorchichuk, Tick Beattie and Howie Hornby, all newcomers, promise plenty of punch.

The V's won't run away with OSAHL honors this winter, but they will make things a lot more interesting.

TICKETS FOR MONDAY'S GAME go on sale today at the Hudson's Bay ticket booth. Prices are $1.25, $1.15 and $1.00.

The ticket booth will be open from 1-5:30 this afternoon. Tickets can also be purchased at the arena Monday afternoon from 1 to 5.

Fans are also reminded that there are still some good seats at centre ice available. Anyone wishing to buy season tickets is urged to do so as soon as possible.

So, another hockey season is just about underway. Hockey interest in Penticton is at a fever pitch and with our club looking better every time out, it should be a good year.

Horvath's Rampage To Be Forgotten

MONTREAL (CP)—President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said today he doubts if further action will be necessary against Bronco Horvath, who went into a whirling rampage in Thursday night's Bruins-Montreal Canadiens game and got himself tossed out.

Referee Red Storey tagged the raging Bronco with a misconduct penalty in the first period and then added a game misconduct. That added up to $75 in automatic fines.

"I saw the game and had a verbal report from Storey afterward," said Campbell. "I think a $75 fine is all I would do in any event and unless Storey's official report shows something else I think no further action will be necessary."

Horvath first went into high dudgeon after being checked by Montreal defenseman Bob Turner. Horvath apparently thought Turner should be penalized and slammed his stick to the ice in demonstration of disgust. Storey waved him off with the 10-minute misconduct penalty.

Before entering the penalty box Horvath went berserk. He swung his stick wildly—Storey was far out of range—then flung his glove to the ice, jumping up and down in his rage. Teammates finally calmed him and he was ordered to the dressing-room when the game misconduct penalty was imposed.

Horvath's outburst didn't help the Bruins, who lost 3-2.

Mother, Children Killed in Crackup

TROQUOIS, Ont. (CP)—A Toronto mother and her two small children were killed Friday night when two cars collided near this St. Lawrence river town.

Mrs. Anne Schuurin, 25, Diane, 7, and Bobby, 6, were dead when police pulled them from the wreckage of their family car. The husband, Jean-Guy, 29, was taken to hospital suffering from shock. The driver of the other car escaped with a shaking up.

Casey Quitting Baseball? No, Says Stengel

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel quitting baseball as manager of the world champion New York Yankees after his latest world series triumph?

"Plain rubbish," said the 38-year-old skipper, still enjoying the thrill of beating Milwaukee Braves in the final game of the world series Thursday after being down 3-1 in games. "There's too much work to be done for me to think about quitting."

Stengel's two-year contract expires this year. Talk of his quitting was revived Friday by a story in the New York Post saying Stengel and general manager George Weiss are feuding.

Retorted Weiss: "This is a bare-faced lie and you can make it as strong as you like. There is absolutely no semblance of a feud between us."

The club has called a press conference for Tuesday. Stengel said he will be present to discuss plans for the 1959 season.

Now the Rumors Have Haney Going

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Rumors that sprouted from the debris of the Milwaukee Braves world series defeat have three players perched on the trading block and manager Fred Haney ready to resign.

The marked men are shortstop Johnny Logan and right-handed pitchers Bob Buhl and Gene Conley, and possibly Bob Trowbridge.

The report that Haney would retire has been growing since rumors placed former Cincinnati manager Birdie Tebbetts in line for an executive post with the Braves. Tebbetts has been mentioned as the possible choice as an aide for club president Joseph C. Cairnes who recently was named an official of a Florida development company headed by Braves' owner Lou Perini.

The 60-year-old Haney denied he would retire saying, "as long as they keep paying me, I'll be around."

He has guided Braves to two straight National League titles and one world championship. Shortstop Logan had a bad season and poor series. During the regular campaign he hit only .227. Buhl missed a good portion of the season because of arm trouble. He was 5-2 this year.

Conley was used mostly in relief, working 72 innings and winding up with a record of six defeats and no victories. Trowbridge pitched 55 innings, compiling a 1-3 record.

Truck Is No Match For Enraged Moose

CHAPLEAU, Ont. (CP)—It's moose mating season in the north and, as usual, the bulls are in a mean mood. Two incidents to prove the point.

Lloyd Woods, a deputy chief forest ranger, was driving a truck near Island Lake one night last week when a bull moose stepped into his headlights.

Assuming it would move off into the bush, Woods slowed the truck but didn't quite stop. The bull charged, stopped the vehicle in its tracks, smashed the grill, bent the hood and roof and tore a carrier off the top.

While Woods sat surveying the damage the animal sauntered off with a sore head but proud pace.

Ranger Harry Kohls was working on a line-cutting provision he heard a strange noise and looked back to find a huge bull stalking him.

The ranger hurried his axe. It was the wrong move. The bull started after him and Kohls fled. He still had a lead when he reached a nearby road and was picked up by a passing truck.

District forester T. W. Hueston comments in his weekly report: "The moose season got off to a fairly good start."

BIG TRAIN RUNS AGAIN

This 190-pound halfback has the name and the talent to keep scouts from Canada's nine pro football teams watching his every move as he stars for University of Western Ontario Mustangs. He is Lionel Conacher, eldest son of the late Big Train, Canada's outstanding athlete of the last century. Lionel Jr. is the top ball-carrier in the intercollegiate league and has scored three T.D.'s in two games. He has another year of college ball but has ambitions of turning pro after graduation.

Packers Nip Nelson In Exhibition Tilt

NELSON (CP)—Kelowna Packers of the Okanagan Senior League, who will play a five-game exhibition hockey series in Russia this year, trounced Nelson Maple Leafs 10-4 Friday night in an exhibition encounter here with the Western International league club.

It was Kelowna's fourth exhibition game this year but the first appearance for the Nelson squad. The Leafs still are without a goal and the position was filled by Seth Martin of the Trail Smoke Eaters.

Russ Kowalchuk was the big gun for the Packers. He scored four goals and was credited with two assists. Greg Jabloski scored three goals and one assist.

Curlers to Meet Wed., October 15

Penticton Granite Club president George Lang has announced that the annual general meeting of the club will be held at the Granite Club at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 15.

All curlers will be made welcome and are urged to attend. Drawings will be made after the meeting. George Cady and Roy Dirks comprise the draw committee this year.

A directors' meeting will be held November 1. Free ice time will be available for club members on Oct. 31.

A mixed bonspiel for the first week in November is in the planning stages as is the president-elect—president playoff. Regular draw will start Nov. 10.

Anyone who has not been designated to a rink and who is interested in curling this winter is asked to phone 4146 and leave their name.

PEACOSH SCORES

Canucks Triumph In WHL Opener

VANCOUVER—Vancouver Canucks subdued Victoria Cougars 3-2 in a scrappy Western Hockey League coast division game here Friday night before more than 3,800 fans.

Scoring in each period, Canucks successfully launched a defence of their WHL crown. Captain Phil Maloney, Walt Peacosh and Ron Hutchinson scored for Canucks. George Ford got both Victoria goals.

It was 1-1 at the end of the first period, 2-2 after the second and Hutchinson scored the winner early in the third.

Maloney opened the scoring early in the first when he slapped in Don Carter's rebound from close in. Defenceman Kent Douglas also drew an assist.

FORD'S FIRST
 Fourteen minutes later Ford got his first goal, tipping in a drive from the right boards by Al Nicholson.

Canucks forged ahead again early in the second with Peacosh slapping in Maloney's pass. But Ford again tied the score, stealing the puck from the Canucks' Bruce Gamble from close in.

Hutchinson's winner came at 2:59 of the third. He took Dan Belisle's pass near the right boards, skated in front of the Victoria net and blasted a shot into the top right-hand corner.

GOALIE PULLED
 Cougars pulled goalie Marcel Pelletier with 40 seconds left but couldn't get a direct shot on Gamble.

Pelletier, last year with Canucks, turned aside 38 shots. Gamble, a 21-year-old rookie from the junior Guelph Biltmores, stopped 24.

Jean-Marc Picard, Victoria defenceman, was struck on the cheek by a puck in the first minute of play. Extent of his injury was not immediately known but he failed to appear again in the game.

Standout netminding and a three-goal outburst by Saskatoon Quaker defenceman Gary Blaine spotlighted opening action in both divisions of the 1958-59 Western Hockey League season Friday night.

Blaine's performance spoiled the home debut of Winnipeg Warriors as Quakers took a 6-1 verdict before 3,783 fans.

Dennis Riggins, 23-year-old Edmonton Flyers netminder, scored a shutout as Flyers downed Calgary Stampede 3-0 before about 4,000 Edmonton fans.

Defenceman Bud MacPherson and forwards Ray Kinasevich and Chuck Holmes scored for Flyers, MacPherson in the first period and Kinasevich and Holmes in the third.

Centre Sid Finney, a 29-year-old WHL veteran, and rookie goaltender Roy Edwards, 21-year-old from the world amateur champion Whitby Dunlops, were standouts for Calgary.

FINNEY BREAKS OUT
 Finney broke through the entire Edmonton team five times with brilliant stickhandling, but each time Riggins was in position to block his shots.

Edwards, making 36 saves in all, kept Flyers off the scoreboard on two occasions while Stampede's played two men short.

Early in the third period, he handled seven shots in less than two minutes.

MacPherson, who went nearly half the season a year ago before getting a goal, opened the scoring Friday night when a low screen shot from the left point on the blueline hit Calgary defenceman Freddy Huecl and bounced into the open side.

The second went scoreless as Stampede took four penalties, including one to Edwards for holding the puck too long after catching a shot and one to the bench when coach Gus Kyle protested.

Edwards made 13 stops in that period to nine by Riggins.

Kinasevich, who came to Flyers this year after two seasons with Seattle, swung around and fired a forehead shot into the open side of the net early in the third after Huecl had blocked a shot by MacPherson from the blueline. Stampede's were a man short at the time.

Holmes made the most brilliant play of the night, taking the puck from his own zone while his club played a man short, skating the length of the ice on a break with Jerry Melnyk, and driving the puck into the net off the inside of the goal post on the short side.

Two Mounties Are Traded for a Giant

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast League announced Friday they have traded second baseman Jim Brideweser and southpaw pitcher Art Ceccarelli to Phoenix Giants in return for third baseman Jim Finigan.

Brideweser had an excellent season in the field for Vancouver but batted only .253. Ceccarelli had a 10-6 pitching record.

Spokane Flyers, New Westminster Royals host Vancouver Canucks, Edmonton and Calgary meet at Calgary and Winnipeg travels to Saskatoon for a return match against the Quakers.

Riggins kicked out 22 shots to gain his shutout in Edmonton while defenceman Bud MacPherson and forwards Ray Kinasevich and Chuck Holmes scored single goals. But in defeat, Stampede netminder Roy Edwards was sensational. The 21-year-old rookie, up from world champion Whitby Dunlops, stopped 36 drives.

At Winnipeg Blaine, who played briefly with Warriors in 1956, scored once in the first period and twice in the second. Bob Kable, Bill Bucyk and Elliot Chorley each added single goals.

Rookie defenceman Don Johns scored Warriors' only goal early in the second to tie the score at 1-1. But Quakers, led by Blaine, came back quickly and went ahead to stay.

Meteors Rise High In Oliver Bowling

OLIVER—In Thursday night League play at the Oliver Bowling Alley, the Meteors took double honors of team high three — 2452 and high single with 945.

Jean Beach rolled a 238 for Ladies' high single and also took high three with a 495.

Bob Wheeler also doubled his honors with Men's high single of 278 and the high three total of 699.

"FLOOD OF ORDERS FOLLOWS NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING"

BENRUS RELIES ON DAILY NEWSPAPERS TO PROMOTE SAME DAY SALES AT DEALER LEVEL

J. H. Schwartz, Vice-President and General Manager of the Benrus Watch Company of Canada Ltd. says: "When we first entered the Canadian market, newly acquired dealers demanded quick product recognition and demand from Canadian customers. The advertising medium best able to meet these requirements and prove to dealers that the Benrus line is a profit line was daily newspapers used in conjunction with local 'hookers'." After the first series of advertisements a flood of orders came in from dealers across Canada and we were well on our way to establishing nation-wide distribution. Since the founding of the Benrus Canadian organization just four short years ago, the Benrus watch has fast become one of Canada's most popular watches and Benrus has continued to place up to 86% of its advertising budget in daily newspapers. As a direct result each year new sales records are reached for the many fine lines of modern watches under the Benrus name."

* A 'hooker' gives a local dealer's name and address and is voluntarily appended by him to a manufacturer's advertisement.

Benrus advertising is handled in Canada by James Lovick & Company Ltd.

Nationalists Down Red Jets

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Jet fighters of the Chinese Nationalists and Communists battled over the Formosa Strait Friday. The Nationalists said five red planes were downed at a cost of one of their own.

theirs.

The Nationalist Air Force said machine-gun fire from its F-86 Sabre jets shot down four MIG-17s. A Sabre jet collided with a fifth MIG, sending both crashing into the ocean and killing the Nationalist pilot, a spokesman said. Peiping Radio said Communist planes shot down two Nationalist Sabre jets and damaged a third.

Saturday, October 11, 1958 THE PENTICTON HERALD 11

It said one Nationalist pilot "has been captured alive." There was no mention of Red losses. The Nationalists now claim they have shot down 34 MIGs and damaged or possibly destroyed 11 more since the Communists began bombarding the Quemoy Islands Aug. 23. In that period the Nationalists say they have lost only the plane in today's collision. News of the air battle climaxed the observance on Formosa of the 47th anniversary of the revolution that overthrew the Manchu Dynasty and led to establishment of the Chinese Republic. Falling on the 10th day of the month, it is known as the "double 10th" holiday.

Gaylords' Club Strives To Battle Delinquency

By PETER TOMLIN

"The primary aim of our club is to keep juvenile delinquency out of this town," said Don Nyen, president of the Valley Gaylords Rod and Custom Car Club.

Don, who has been president of the club since its formation November 17, 1957, said, "Our biggest plan is to gain the respect of the citizens of Penticton."

Further aims of the club he said are to uphold all Canadian laws pertaining to safety and courteous drivers.

He added, "Penticton has been acclaimed as the least rowdy town in the Okanagan and we like to think our club has helped the situation. We feel quite confident that we have the respect of the RCMP."

of an automobile," said president Nyen.

"Should one of our members get into difficulties through no fault of their own, we stand behind them 100 per cent, both financially and morally," He continued, "We are also trying to serve the public through various club projects."

Two of the club's more recent public service projects were a car wash held in aid of the school for retarded children and participation in the Red Cross Blood Drive. Gaylord club members took fourth place in the club competition during the drive.

OWN THEIR CLUBHOUSE

Members have just completed building and gravelling a road in to their clubhouse. Located at the top end of Duncan Avenue, the clubhouse was built by members. They had held informal meetings prior to the formation of the group. They decided to build their own quarters and had the job completed in time for their first official meeting last November.

Plans for the immediate future include enlarging facilities of the building. The Gaylords are open to new members at any time, and with the growth in membership, the clubhouse has already become too small.

Meetings are held each Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. in the clubhouse.

"We would welcome new members at any time," said club vice-president Fred Filbrandt. "We would, however, like them to contact our president as the first step in joining."

Persons wishing to join the club are asked to phone Don Nyen at 6429 any evening. He will make the necessary arrangements. An initiation ceremony for new members will be held at the clubhouse next weekend.

HOLD GYPSY TOURS

From time to time, the club hold "gypsy tours." These are tours in which as many as possible of the twenty members of the club travel to a different spot in the province as a group. Once there, the members try to promote understanding and interest in hot rod and custom car activities among the younger members of the community.

One such to Kerebeos resulted in the formation of the Penticton group, Kerebeos enthusiasts were able to get their club into operation.

Other points visited by club members on various gypsy tours are Oroville, Vancouver, Princeton, Oliver, Kelowna and Vernon. The Gaylords maintain contact with club they meet on these tours through correspondence.

Some of the clubs with which contact is maintained are the Cavaliers in Penticton, Rockers of White Rock — Rocker activities are supervised by the RCMP — Nomads of New Westminster, Golden Customs of Vancouver, Satan's Angels of Vancouver, Dragons of North Burnaby, Rod Benders of Oroville and the Torque Twisters of Grand Forks.

SAFETY STRESSED

"All of these clubs, as with our own, stress highway safety first and car customizing second," explained the club president. "We want to impress on all our members that the automobile is something to be used properly and respected. It is not a toy."

Club members are also encouraged in and helped with customizing of their cars. Some members chose to build hot rods, while others go about radical customizing of stock cars.

All the members' auto body work is done by Pete Toker, proprietor of the Custom Body Shop in Penticton.

Club executive members are, in addition to Nyen, vice-president and secretary — treasurer Fred Filbrandt, sergeant-at-arms Bob Paulson — and car checkers Jim Thompson and Jim Morris.

Although the club has been asked by three different groups, they do not at present have a provincial affiliation. They have been approached on the subject by the B.C. Hot Rod Association, the B.C. Custom Car Association and the B.C. Track Association.

DON NYEN

... president

"A definite must for members of our club," he said, "is that they stop and offer assistance to any car or truck in trouble on the road. If their offer is accepted, they present a club courtesy card when they leave."

CLUB HAS A CREED

Club members have adopted their own creed. Members are required to adhere strictly to its provisions, which are:

1. To promote interest in various types of hot rod activity.
2. To create good fellowship and sportsmanship among the members.

3. To uphold the principles of good government.

4. To conduct club operations and activities in such a manner as to bring about a cleaner understanding of hot rod activities on the part of the public, press and law enforcement agencies.

5. To promote safety in automobile maintenance and operation.

"We try to get our new members, particularly the younger ones, off on the right foot with regard to the operation and care

FRED FILBRANDT

... secretary

"We have been so successful to date that we have decided to remain on our own for the time being at least," is the feeling of the executive.

The executive has left the door open for provincial affiliation in future if and when it is decided that it will be beneficial to the club.

In the meantime, club members are kept busy working on their cars and making the highway a better and safer place to drive.

MRS. ALLEN FORSLUND of Fort William, Ontario, enjoys looking at household equipment in the Penticton Museum on S. S. Scamouse used by Salish Indian women a hundred years ago. Mrs. Forslund and baby accompanied Mr. Fors-lund to Penticton when he came here to play hockey for the "Vees" this fall. Here she admires a birch bark tray, a basket of giant rye grass and a mortar and pestle in which food was slowly made ready for use by grinding.

Life Was Slower When Indians Lived Here

By MARJORIE VANDERBURGH

No morning coffee. No tea in the afternoon. Lots of slow tedious work. That is the only way a young Indian woman managed to feed her family a hundred years or more ago.

You can see it for yourself if you visit the Museum on the Scamouse and look around for the cooking utensils Indian women used; the food they had to prepare, and the things with which they worked generally. It will be a sort of "look and say" method. You look and R. N. Atkinson, the curator, says how the things were used. Mr. Atkinson has a great fund of knowledge and is keen on your observations and his explanations a picture becomes clear.

There is a great heavy granite mortar and a petrified wood pestle used for grinding grain or for softening meat. The dried roots of rock roses were softened and used as a vegetable. Spring beauty roots are wild potatoes. Tiny things to be peeled and cooked over an open fire. Have you seen the big chunks of pemican in the Museum? Made of buffalo meat and berries, in the winter it had to be cooked for four hours to become edible.

In hard times the Indian woman resorted to using mushrooms and fungi and you may see the dried saddles that grow at the base of trees that to us don't seem particularly appetizing. In the spring the Indian housewife would be boring a hole into the birch trees to collect sap for sweetening, and she would be glad to see the birds coming back for many reasons. One especially would be that then she would have fresh eggs to use from ducks, geese, blue, willow and Franklin grouse, rails and coots.

Promotes New Tourist Area In Antarctic

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealand is enthusiastically promoting a brand new tourist region — the Antarctic.

The idea was put forward by the American Antarctic leader, Rear Admiral George Dufek. The Antarctic, he declared, was the best tourist area in the world, and in February a cruise liner could go there with ease.

ADMIRAL KEEN

Admiral Dufek is so keen on the idea that he challenged New Zealand to take up the scheme and put it into practice. But the people of Christchurch, takeoff city for plane and sea journeys to Antarctica, needed no urging.

The idea was promptly espoused by many prominent citizens in this South Island city. The Canterbury Progress League has been particularly active in exploring the prospects of a tour to the far south in the coming summer — the Antarctic summer and perpetual daylight are during the northern hemisphere's winter. The league says negotiations are well under way for an early visit by cruise liner to the southern continent. It is not yet willing to give details, but says it is hopeful of the outcome.

The organization is also negotiating with Pan American Airways for flights to the far south.

Later in the summer with a tramp line around her forehead that she had woven of Indian hemp and attached to a berry basket she had made herself, she went out in the sweet warm air filling a little basket in her hand with luscious fruit, then tossing its contents over her shoulder into the bigger container.

In the Museum are water tight baskets made of giant rye grass. Fish were put into them and water. Then heated stones, very hot, were thrown in. They steamed the food.

There are splitting wedges of elk horn and of jade which always feels moist. One is so worn that when held up to the light it is like a thin slice of dill pickle. Serpents and knives were made of flint. A fire was lighted with a flint kindling the interior of a dry fungi, which was the tinder. These things seem poor kitchen equipment to us, though the bone spoons smoothed down through usage are almost identical to our large wooden spoons.

A long-ago Indian baby learned to drink from a practical hollow bone tube for, of course, as Mr. Atkinson points out, there were no cups. There are bone awls for sewing and an eyed needle of bone. Our girl would be in a buckskin dress with moccasins on her feet and perhaps one feather in her hair. If she were in a gay mood she adorned her neck with beads made of hollow Pacific dentallium, or in the more recent past with blue Hudson's Bay beaver beads.

There is a big scallop shell and half piece for either side which made a much grander necklaces for special occasions.

And no show, no TV, just the crackling campfire in the evenings and watching the men play their stick game, the sticks used to indicate numbers.

All these things are there and you may weave your own story.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

There's a whisper on the grape-vine that the once 100 strong club for teenage shoplifters is re-activating its membership.

It was close to a year ago that the club came apart at the seams after one or two responsible mothers clamped down. In the following investigation 16 juveniles — all girls — were prosecuted.

The trend is not new. Two years ago at Lake Cowichan there was a well organized "50 Club." To join the select group the aspiring club member had to steal articles valued at $50. When the RCMP eventually broke up this little band it was discovered that the majority of members were from respectable homes, and that the goods they stole were rarely or never used. The youngsters had no need of the items stolen from the local stores. They stole because club rules demanded theft as an entrance fee.

In the Alberni Valley little over two years ago many juveniles united under the title "The Dukes." Their membership fee varied a little. Violence or vandalism was the price of entry.

Broken windows, street lamps, park benches were the commonest methods used to pay the dues. The Dukes fell by the wayside after a rival group started a battle for territorial rights thus bringing the whole matter to the attention of the police.

At the present time we understand the Pen-Hi club is only in the talking stage. It may have commenced its activities by the time this appears in print, though we hope not, for if it has it is doomed to failure.

Sure, the youngsters will get away with their little stealing jag for a while. Shoplifting in a busy store is one of the easiest forms of theft. But sooner or later, and usually sooner, there'll be a knock on the door and a stern faced policeman on the step asking a few embarrassing questions.

In the case of the Dukes and the 50 Club much of the responsibility fell on the shoulders of delinquent parents. In most cases of juvenile delinquency the blame can be placed there. It will be no different here in Penticton if the old club gets up to new activities.

During the next week or so parents would be well advised if they took note of any unusual "gifts" their youngsters come home with. Insistence on knowing where such gifts come from, and an immediate check of the story, could save a lot of hand-wringing later on.

If any of the youngsters from Pen-High are reading this on the advice of their parents, and have any knowledge of fellow scholars who boast of their light-fingered efforts, they should talk about it right away.

There's natural aversion to "squealing" we know, but there must also be a sense of responsibility towards the community in which we live and the people we live with. Far better to talk now than to wait until the proposed movement collapses and then wish you were a million miles away.

LIGHTER SIDE

SHEFFIELD, Eng (Reuters) — A bus driver told the judge that he saw a car travelling toward him with a German shepherd dog at the wheel.

Driver Fred Smith, still a bit shaken, added Friday "I saw the car start to move. It travelled 50 yards and I thought it was going to park. All I could see was the dog in the driver's seat."

The dog's owner, Robert Griffin, pleaded not guilty to leaving the car's emergency brake off before leaving the animal alone in it on a down-grade.

"My dog must have seen another dog in the street and jumped, knocking off the brake," he said.

The judge fined him £3.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — "Our rooms were close together here at the rest home and we saw each other every day and decided it would be nice to live together by ourselves."

Thus William L. Moulton, 85, explains how he and his new bride, Lydia, 90, came to wed. They have moved from the Palm Lane Rest Home in near-by Alta Loma to a four-room cottage on the grounds, and intend to live out their lives there.

Both have married children by previous marriages.

HISTORIC QUEBEC

In 1864 the Fathers of Confederation met there to draw up the constitution that governs Canada today. In 1943 it was the scene of the famous meetings of Churchill and Roosevelt to plan the invasion of the European continent. They returned to Quebec in 1944 for another historic meeting.
